

Volunteers needed to help train Student Doctors!

Would you like to share your experiences of health and illness and the impact on your life?

Would you have an hour free to spend talking to student doctors attached to Hill Brow surgery ?

We are welcoming student doctors from the University of Sheffield to the Practice to gain practical experience. Students in their first two years of training will come in groups of six to our practice to learn about general practice.

We would like to set up a bank of volunteer patients who would be able to come in for about an hour to share their story with the students and help them learn.

To find out more, please speak to Dr Sandica or one of our reception staff.
